SHOULD SPAIN BREAK WITH HUNS? -:||:- -:||:- -:||:- -:||:-

L ONDON, Eng. Sept. 25.—The mans who flocked to Spain from Africa, Italy, Prance and Engcial circles bers that Spain's deman ships for Spanish ships suit eventually in a bresk with Germany. However, should the break come, it is not believed that Spain would put an army in the field on the weatern front.

Well informed diplomats point which would arrive to the allies if Spain does sever diplomatic relations would be threefeld: First, some 90 Germin ships which sought refuge to Spanish ports who have been a potent propa-gunda, force stace, would be intermed; third Spain's action would tral and South American countries where Spanish influence in still strong, and where Germany curries favor.

The fact that Germany has accepted the Spanish ultimation of confiscation reflects a desprinage in Germany's foreign policy as computed to that of five months ago, when distaining in Holland. Germany's backdown from her former dominecting, win-against the whole-world stiffteds indicates, officials say, that Berlin already sees the handwriting on the wall.
